Obituaries

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Abram Newman, 87, who retired in 1937 as circulation manager of the now defunct New York Orlor, died Monday.

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — W. Stewart Hollingshead, 64, board chairman and chief executive officer of the R. M. Hollingshead Corp., died Monday.

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Tracy Strong, 80, former general secretary of the world alliance of the Young Men's Christian Association, died Sunday.

sulted in suits being filed. Such agencies as the Veterans Administration, the Social Security Administration, state welfare departments which receive federal funds, and housing authorities operated under the Federal Housing Administration were among the defendants.

OEO said it has no record of how many suits its lawyers filed against government agencies. It also said it had no breakdown on just how much all this activity cost the taxpayers, but the Neighborhood Legal Services program, alone had a budget last year of $42 million. Of this, $17 million went to pay the salaries of its legal staff (an average of $9,500 per lawyer).

Some of the officials who wound up on the losing side in cases filed by NLS—including Gov. Ronald Reagan of California—complained it was not right for the government to pay lawyers to sue the government.

Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., offered an amendment last year to the Senate version of the anti-poverty bill to bar NLS from such activities. It failed to pass by 16 votes.

Neighborhood Legal Services found an unexpected ally last week in the President's Commission on Civil Disorders.

"The legal services program administered by the Office of Economic Opportunity has made a good beginning in providing legal assistance to the poor. Its present level of effort should be substantially expanded through increased private and public funding."

Suits against private citizens—landlords accused of charging exorbitant rents, for example—represent 92 per cent of the court actions filed by NLS, but a spokesman for the program noted "these are not our landmark cases."

"Although the proportion of suits against the government is not great, those suits tend to be the most important ones, the cases that involve law reform. And a major goal of the program is to change unjust laws."

cial Security benefits through enactment last year, said Johnson's request "will take us a long stride in the direction of reducing exorbitant prices for drugs."

Johnson said the infant-mortality rate of 22.1 deaths per 1,000 children under the age of one is "inexcusably high." He said this country ranks 15th among nations in infant mortality when it should lead the world "in saying its young."

He asked for a $25 million hike, to $61 million, in funds to make family planning information and birth-control devices or drugs available to three million poor women "if they so desire."

The President also requested an initial $12 million to set up a center for studying population and human reproduction, which would aid in family-planning research.

Arkansas Full Crew Law to Be Ruled on

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has decided to consider a contention by railroad unions that Arkansas laws governing the number of crew members on a train do not put an unconstitutional burden on interstate commerce.

Arkansas is supporting the railroad unions' appeal of a 1967 ruling by a three-judge federal court at Hot Springs, Ark. An engineer, a fireman, a conductor and three brakemen are necessary on freight trains under the Arkansas laws. The laws also require a fireman, an engineer, a foreman and three helpers on switch trains.

The unions contend that the laws assure the safety of the public.

The railroads say the laws, which are more than 50 years old, are outdated because of technological advances.

Cut Cancer Ad, Firm Is Ordered

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The American Family Life Assurance Co. of Columbia, Ga., has been ordered to withdraw an advertisement offering women policyholders do-it-yourself cancer smear kits.

State Insurance Commissioner Allan W. Horne issued the order Monday but emphasized that neither the company nor its cancer policy were under attack.

Horne said an attorney for the Arkansas Medical Society told him offering the kit constituted an "illegal and unauthorized practice of medicine." He said a pathologist informed that reliance on the kit could be dangerous to a woman.

No Quarrel Compensation

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Workmen's Compensation Commission said Monday that the Workmen's Compensation Act does not cover an injury sustained in a personal quarrel on the job and denied an award to Arthur Frazier of Geneva (Pulaski County).

Frazier was shot in the chest June 5, 1967 by a fellow employee. The commission said the employer did not cause, aggravate or precipitate the incident.

One of the big emotional decisions was what a woman still unmarried at 35 should do with the fond contents of her girlhood hope chest—hold on to them despite the recurrent rallery of the family, or give them away and cry alone later without these souvenirs of hope.

How nice it was in childhood to make a summer visit to relatives on the farm and drop a pebble down the dark well and wait for the hollow splash below. It taught you a certain feeling about the romance between sound and distance you couldn't get any other way.

Civilization had not as yet reached the point where more overworked middle-aged men fell dead in the streets than overworked middle-aged horses.

You could keep a kid happy for a week by buying him a nickel yo-yo.

Those were the days! Remember?

DR. DON FREEL
At its Monday noon luncheon at Town & Country, Hope Lions learned more about the Arkansas Enterprises for the Blind on a program arranged by Don Freely, chairman of the sight conservation program.

The group heard Dr. Lowell Harris report of the medical and psychiatric aspects of the center and he disclosed that Dr. Peyton Kolb and Dr. Thomas Honeycutt, both former Hope men, were consultants at the center.

Horace Hubbard, formerly connected with the Hope school system, also is employed by the center.

Don Abbot reported on the skills and manual arts being taught to the blind. Among these are typing, sewing, rugmaking, cooking, switchboard operation, reading braille and the operation of power driven woodworking machinery and other types of machines.

Claude Byrd discussed the spiritual and physical side of a trainees life. Mr. Byrd was guided by an official of the center, a former Methodist minister, who lost his sight, went through the center and now serves as chaplain and counselor for trainees.

Jim James told about the trip itself and summed up by saying that the Hope club is ahead in the District Governor's contest by a comfortable margin.

The annual broom sale will be held March 25. This sale helps support the center and many Lions now are more aware of the importance of this event after seeing the center.

Hurt in Fall From Scaffold

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — William Rouston of North Little Rock was seriously injured Monday when a frame scaffold on which he was working collapsed.

Rouston, who was spreading pigeon repellent on balconies and ledges at the state Capitol, fell 15 feet to the ground level roof. Crew Supervisor B. B. Boatman said Rouston had been standing on a second-floor ledge. He said the 25-foot high scaffold was being moved to another position when it collapsed.

Upholds Right of Search, Seizure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court upscored today the right of police to seize evidence that is in their "plain view" and to use it at trial, even though they had no search warrant.

In an unsigned opinion the robbery conviction of James H. Harris of the District of Columbia was upheld over his claim that police violated the search provisions of the 4th Amendment by taking the victim's automobile registration card from another automobile identified as the get-away car.

The car was impounded by the police as evidence and it was towed to a lot where an officer found the registration card on the metal stripping over the door.

The court took the view "that the discovery of the card was not the result of a search of the car, but a measure taken to protect the car while it was in police custody."

At one point Harris had won a reversal in a federal court here. He was sentenced to two to seven years.

SW District Garden Clubs Hold Meet

The Southwest District of the Arkansas Federation of Garden Clubs, Inc. met at the First Methodist Church in Hope, recently.

Approximately one hundred eighty-one officers and members from fifteen towns consisting of several garden clubs were represented. The towns are Prescott, Benton, Glenwood, Camden, Texarkana, Hot Springs, Mena, Malvern, For-dyce, El Dorado, Arkadelphia, Magnolia, Foreman, Waldo, and Hope.

Officers attending were Mrs. Billy G. Wilson, South Central Regional Director of the National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc.; Mrs. Clifton Powell, President of the Arkansas Federation of Garden Clubs; Mrs. Betty Barnes, Southwest District Director; Mrs. Jack Ward, State Chairman of Awards; Miss Eva Evans, State Chairman of Conservation; and Mrs. R. M. Burrow, Southeast District Director.

Registration and coffee began at 8:00 a.m. and the opening session began at 9:30 in the Sanctuary with Mrs. Chris Petre, President of the Hope Council of Garden Clubs, presiding. Rev. Everett Vinson, Pastor of the First Methodist Church gave the invocation. Welcome was given by Mr. Donal Parker, Mayor of Hope and the Response by Mrs. Billy G. Wilson.

Mrs. Petre turned the meeting to Mrs. Betty Barnes, the Southwest District Director who presented the State President and other officers and guests.

Mrs. Barnes called for reports from all the Presidents of garden clubs represented at the meeting.

Announcements were made and the meeting adjourned for the luncheon held in the Fellowship Hall.

During the luncheon door prizes consisting of shrubs, containers and other items were drawn for. Awards were presented to three contestants from this district for the Soil Conservation Speech Contest. The winner will compete in the State Contest in March. The three contestants were from Hot Springs. Judges for the contest were Mrs. James Brown of the Soil Conservation Service and Mrs. B. E. McPherson, Speech teacher at Hope High School.

Following the luncheon the meeting resumed and a film "Jewels in the Night" was shown and narrated by Mrs. Barnes. This film showed the beautiful effects of night lighting in the garden, patio and outside of the home. This film was the courtesy of the Arkansas Power and Light Company.

The meeting adjourned at 2:30 p.m.

Mrs. Jerry Alexander, General Chairman and Mrs. Chris Petre, President of the Hope Council of Garden Clubs wish to take this method of thanking Rev. Vinson, Donal Parker, and all the merchants for the favors and door prizes contributed.

THEY WANT TO WASH A JET PLANE

Dear Helen:

Adults keep saying, "Use imagination." "Get initiative—earn your own money."

But when we try something different, we get shot down.

All we wanted to do was wash a big jet airliner.

But no -- the union would let us. It was "Go back to car washes and candy sales, kids, and don't get wild ideas."

You don't earn enough money to take 10 kids to an important conference unless you come up with wild ideas. We could have chartered a bus with the money we earned washing a jet.

Helen, how about asking your YAFI readers to write in about the most successful fund-raising projects at their school, and how they managed them? -- CLIPP-ED WINGS

Dear C.W.:

How about it, kids? Your ideas for fund-raising should make a good column, but I'll bet none even comes close to the one that got shot down, Jet-washing! Now that's what I call CLASS! -- H.

Dear Helen:

Please, would you tell these straight-faced, down-the-dumps store clerks that customers don't appreciate them? I hate to walk up to a check-out counter and not even get a smile, or search out a salesgirl and then have her act as if she's doing me a big favor, noticing I'm alive.

I work summers as a salesgirl, and I know how often a smile and real interest will bring people back to the store. I'm not bragging, but I'm friendly. Many of the customers ask for me specially. I feel kind of rewarded. It's a challenge, getting folks to respond and finding how human they are.

It's a shame that managers can't measure another kind of I.Q. when they hire -- Interest Quotient. -- GOOD-NATURED.

Dear G.N.:

Managers who ARE astute enough to measure "Interest Quotient" hire clerks who keep their businesses prospering. Too bad a few people-haters slip through, but they don't last long in modern stores. -- H.

Dear Helen:

I'm going with a guy who is very kind and sweet. But my problem is:

How can I tell him to brush his teeth more often without making him mad at me? -- BOTH-ERED

Dear Helen:

I am a college freshman, on a scholarship which pays all my tuition. I live at home, but buy my own meals at college and pay for my clothes and other expense from what I earn each summer.

All my folks furnish is the use of their car to get to classes, and $5.00 a week for gas. My folks aren't hurting for money, but the way my Mother squirms at the thought of giving me $5.00 a week, you'd think they were dead broke. Is this too much to ask? My budget won't stretch any farther -- SON OF A PINCH PENNY

Dear Son:

I haven't heard both sides, but from here it appears that your folks are getting off mighty easy. College often costs parents $3,000 a year. -- H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of The Hope Star.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Cavett, a pleasant, civil-mannered young comedian, slipped unobtrusively onto the daytime television scene Monday with an ABC show called "This Morning," built carefully in a mold so popular that it is almost a cliché.

Cavett, like Johnny Carson, Joey Bishop, Mike Douglas, Merv Griffin and the others, is host of an informal talk-comedy-music show. The only difference is that his 90 minutes starts in midmorning and ends at noon.

It is really unfair to judge anything of this category on the basis of the opening program or even of the opening week. Cavett, a comedy writer turned performer, needs time to find and get accustomed to his new role of host, and his helpers must have some time to shake down too.

The opening show, however, was notable for its lack of excitement and even of a point of view. Cavett, who has a self-deprecating manner and understated sense of humor, essayed a few short jokes that didn't even arouse much enthusiasm from the studio audience. Then he introduced the band—all these shows must have an orchestra — and proceeded to struggle through an interview with Buckminster Fuller, a 72-year-old philosopher, about the latter's theory of the coming dominance of women.

Jack Albertson, an actor, did a mildly amusing sketch with the star. Patricia Neal turned up and talked about her recent illness and recovery. Pat McCormick traded quips with Cavett and Jack E. Leonard appeared in a fur coat. Finally a snake handler, with a king cobra whipping angrily around the stage, wound up the show.

The program was plagued by frequent interruptions for commercials, sometimes when guests were in midsentence. Sometimes the show would return to Cavett for only about two sentences before there was another sales break.

NBC's "Danny Thomas Hour" was a mixed up murder tale called "My Friend Tony." It was of interest only because the program was a pilot film, made with the idea of spinning the principal characters off on a future series of their own. As so often happens in such cases, the story was sidetracked by the producers' interest in showing the potential of the main characters.

They were James Whitmore, playing a brilliant, gruff criminologist, and Enzo Cerusico, as his assistant, Tony. Tony was supposed to be an Italian street urchin he had adopted during the war, and he exuded boyish charm and fractured English.

The whole thing came off badly. The contrast between the professor and his assistant didn't work out sympathetically, and the murder story was interrupted by flash backs and excursions into the professor's class room lectures.

It is doubtful that "My Friend Tony" will make it.

"Dear Mr. Gable," the MGM documentary about Clark Gable, will air on March 5 on NBC, and if you expect some new secrets about Gable, forget it. Nothing new, but producer Nicolas Noxon says you may wind up, as he did, with a greater respect for the man.

"Gable was a well-rounded sensitive man," says Noxon. "He wasn't just a ladies' man at all. He was a real man."

The program is the first product of MGM's new documentary film division. Noxon and executive producer Irwin Rosten comprise the department and they are both ex-David Wolperites.

The Gable idea was a natural. People had wanted to do it before, but MGM had a lock on all the film, without which it would have been nothing. So as soon as Noxon and Rosten moved in, they said, "We do Gable first," and they did. But they have big plans for other documentaries, noncinematic in theme.

These are the "lilies" of the kitchen as featured in the book, "The Cooking of Provincial France."

The institution of the Hollywood studio is old-fashioned and outmoded. That's the opinion of one of our better young directors, Leonard Horn.

"The technical end of picture making takes entirely too much time," Horn says. "Fifty minutes out of every hour on the set are devoted to things like lighting, only 10 minutes to real creativity."

"The problem is that the studios and the techniques are terribly old-fashioned. We all know that the CIA could bug this table, with the mike unnoticeable, and listen clearly a mile away. Yet, on a soundstage, we still have to use a bulky boom mike which gets in the way—half of the lighting time is taken up in figuring out how to hide the boom mike shadow."

"Also, there is what I call the 'be-prepared-for-any-catastrophe' philosophy. You go on location and you have to take eight trucks full of equipment, and 120 men. Most of it is just in case something goes wrong. In Europe, Claude Lelouch shoots with 15 people and very little equipment. If anything goes wrong, he improvises."

Horn, after a long television career, just finished his first feature—"Rogue's Gallery" with Roger Smith and Greta Baldwin. He had more time, naturally, on the movie than he ever had on television.

The television time problem was brought home to him very early in his career. His first assignment was the old Alfred Hitchcock series. He set up his first shot, a master, and was about to call for action when the assistant director said, "You're an hour behind schedule."

"That's impossible," Horn said. "I've only been here a half-hour."

"I can tell the way you've set it up," the AD said, "that you're an hour behind."

Kansas S., Iowa Assured of a Tie

By ED SCHUYLER JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

Kansas State and Iowa, now assured of first-place ties in their respective conferences, must wait until Saturday to do something about clinching titles. But Columbia and Princeton will settle that problem tonight. Eighth-ranked Columbia and Princeton will play off for the Ivy League championship at neutral St. John's Alumni Hall in New York. Princeton forced the playoff by beating Columbia last Saturday night in the final regular-season game.

Columbia is 20-4 and Princeton 20-5 over-all. Each is 12-2 in the Ivy.

Kansas State clinched a share of the Big Eight Conference championship Monday night when Gene Williams tipped in a shot with five seconds left for a 63-61 victory over Iowa State at Ames, Iowa.

This gave the Wildcats a 10-3 conference mark and kept them one game ahead of Kansas, which edged Oklahoma 85-80 at Norman, Okla. Kansas State is at home against Oklahoma State in its final regular-season game Saturday while Kansas plays at Iowa State.

Kansas State, however, is assured of an NCAA berth. The worst K-State can do is tie Kansas for the title, and K-State beat Kansas twice in their home-and-home series. This would determine the champion in the event of a tie, and no playoff would be necessary.

Sam Williams broke the game wide opening by scoring eight points within 58 seconds midway through the second half as Iowa clinched a Big Ten tie by trouncing Minnesota 91-72 at Minneapolis.

Iowa, now 10-3 in the conference, needs to beat Michigan in its regular-season finale at Iowa City Saturday to "wrap up" the title. Ohio State, in second place a game back, closed its regular season on the road Monday night by nipping Illinois 67-64.

Top-ranked Houston and No. 9 Louisville, the only two members of The Associated Press Top Ten to see action, both closed out their regular seasons with easy victory.

Houston, 28-0, smashed West Texas State 107-76 at Canyon, Tex., as Player of the Year Elvin Hayes poured in 39 points and grabbed 27 rebounds.

All-American Westley Unseld scored 30 points and cleared 23 rebounds as Louisville, 20-6 and the Missouri Valley champion, romped 107-58 over Bellarmine at home.

In other games, Vanderbilt thrashed Louisiana State 115-85, Tulane topped Virginia Tech 88-78, Utah State edged Portland 71-69, and Seattle whipped Texas El-Paso 67-51 in home-court triumphs.

Louisiana State's All-American "Pete" Maravich scored 42 points and became the greatest scoring sophomore, with 1,138. Only one major-league player has scored more in one season — Frank Selvy of Furman with 1,209 in 1954. Maravich's 43.6-point per-game average is a record.

Magnolia Beaten by Leachville

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Favored Blytheville and underdog Jonesboro survived harrowing finishes Monday and earned first round victories, along with Little Rock Horace Mann, in the Class AAA state tournament.

Blytheville edged Springdale 44-41; Jonesboro knocked off Hot Springs 47-45, and Mann defeated Fayetteville 67-61.

The Class AA teams had things a little easier. Pine Bluff Merrill blasted Subiaco 69-48; Crossett defeated Greene County Tech 64-43, and Leachville trounced Magnolia 63-51.

Fort Smith Northside, the favorite in Class AAA, swings into action this afternoon against Jacksonville. Fort Smith Southside plays Little Rock Hall at 6:30 and North Little Rock takes on Texarkana at 9:30 in other A.A.A. games.

Harrison, the defending champion in Class AA, plays Russellville at 12:30, Camden Fairview goes against Marianna at 3:30, and Valley Springs meets Searcy at 8 in the AA bracket.

Blytheville led Springdale 23-12 at the half but the Bulldogs gained the lead early in the fourth period. Blytheville led 42-41 with 10 seconds remaining. Danny Trammell lost the ball in the final seconds and fouled trying to get it back as time ran out.

Ben Robinson, who paced the Chicks with 18 points, hit two free throws for the final margin. Trammell led Springdale with 14.

Jonesboro led 37-32 entering the final period and protected its lead throughout the final eight minutes. The Hurricane led 46-45 with 37 seconds left and could have led the game but Robert Currie missed two free throws in the final 10 seconds. Hot Springs' Kenny Quast missed from in close in the final seconds and fouled in an attempt to get the ball back.

Terry Ray had 15 for Jonesboro and Steve Hudson added 13. Al Baldwin scored 14 for Hot Springs and Richard Oliver had 13.

Mann's Michael Peterson scored 28 points, including 20 in the second half, as the Bearcats broke away from a 49-49, third quarter tie. Russell Hall scored 22 and Jerry House 17 for Fayetteville.

Merrill led 38-25 at the half after jumping off to a 13-point first period lead. Kenneth Clemmons scored 32 and Donnie Wilson 25 for Merrill. Tim Dempsey had 13 for Subiaco.

Crossett led GCT 15-2 at the end of the first period and held a 33-12 advantage at the half. Terry Hankton led 26 for the Eagles.

Houston Still Rated Top Cagers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three, and possibly four, members of the Top Ten major college basketball teams begin play this week in the NCAA tournament, but two others might have to fight each other just to get in.

Top-ranked and unbeaten Houston, third-ranked and unbeaten St. Bonaventure and No. 10 Davidson help get the NCAA tourney under way Saturday.

Columbia's eighth-ranked Lions also will play Saturday if they can beat Princeton in an Ivy League playoff tonight. If not, Princeton will play La Salle at College Park, Md.

Davidson will meet St. John's, N.Y., also at College Park; Houston takes on Chicago Loyola at Salt Lake City, Utah, and St. Bonaventure battles Boston College at Kingston, R.I.

But North Carolina and Duke, Nos. 5 and 6, must compete in the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, which determines the NCAA representative.

The teams played last Saturday, and the outcome was North Carolina's second 87-86 loss of the week. The first was to South Carolina and, coupled with the second, knocked the Tar Heels from third to fifth.

Duke, on the other hand, rocketed from 10th to sixth, replacing Columbia, which tumbled to eighth after losing to Princeton.

Second-ranked UCLA already has an NCAA spot but doesn't close its regular season schedule until Saturday against Southern California.

In this week's poll, Kentucky moved up one notch to fourth, New Mexico remained seventh, and Louisville held onto No. 9.

Marquette, No. 8 last week, dropped out after losing to Xavier, Ohio, and Western Michigan while Davidson took over the 10th spot after winning three games in the Southern Conference tournament.

The Top Ten with first-place votes in parentheses and total points through games of March 2:

1. Houston (24)	267
2. UCLA (3)	255
3. St. Bonaventure	212
4. Kentucky	176
5. North Carolina	151
6. Duke	113
7. New Mexico	94
8. Columbia	69
9. Louisville	67
10. Davidson (1)	45

Says Punch That Counted Was a Left

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The punch that regained the world middleweight championship for Nino Benvenuti was a left cross, "my best punch," as he put it.

The punch floored Emilie Griffith for an automatic eight count in the ninth round and was a major factor in Benvenuti gaining a close, but unanimous 15-round decision Monday night.

Griffith, who now has lost twice to Benvenuti in their three title fights, conceded it was an authentic knockdown "not a shove like in our first fight," but said it was a right that floored him.

Told that a replay of the punch on a TNT Communications monitor at ringside showed it was a left, Griffith smiled.

"Well, it might have been a left that put me down, but the right had a little zing to it, too," Griffith thought he had saved his title in the last round when he staggered Benvenuti and drove him across the ring with just one minute left on the clock.

That earned Griffith the last round on all three official scorecards, but it wasn't enough.

The new champion kept reporters waiting outside his dressing room door for 45 minutes, but then he laughed when asked if Griffith had hurt him in the last round.

"No, no, He didn't hurt me, I as just surprised that he had so much stuff left,"

Nino himself seemed tired when he was rushed past the waiting reporters and ordered "don't let anyone in."

When they finally were admitted Benvenuti was seated on a table alongside his pretty wife, Giuliana. She kept silent while Nino answered questions.

"Nothing wrong with my ribs tonight," he replied to one question. Last September, when he lost the title to Griffith in outdoor Shea Stadium, Nino said his ribs had been hurt in an earlier round.

What about another title bout with Griffith?

"I can't say now," Nino replied. "I'm going on a brief vacation with my wife." He smiled at her and leaning over, gave her a kiss.

"We plan to return to our home in Italy in a week. Then we can talk about a rematch."

Somerset Is Star of Win by Houston

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Willie Somerset of Houston acts as if he doesn't want to see the season end, and his 41-point performance Monday night was a step toward prolonging it for the Mavericks.

The 5-foot-9 guard shot Houston into a lead and kept the Mavericks in front en route to a 130-120 victory over Oakland in an American Basketball League game at Houston.

The triumph tightened Houston's hold on fourth place, the last playoff spot, in the Western Division to two games over the Oaks and 2½ over Anaheim.

Denver increased its hold on second place with a 108-98 home victory over third-place Dallas, but the Rockets failed to gain on leading New Orleans, which tumbled Indiana 128-118 at Fort Wayne, Ind., in the only other game.

There were no National Basketball Association games.

With the season ending March 22, Houston's two-game lead looks more substantial every day. Somerset's scoring put the Mavericks into an early lead and when the Oaks pulled within 68-64, he took over again and shot Houston into a 95-81 spread.

Jim Hadnot had 28 points for Oakland.

Denver, 2½ games behind New Orleans and now 2½ ahead of Dallas, shot into a 64-50 half-time lead and then had to hang on.

Larry Jones scored 30 points and Lonnie Wright 23 for Denver while John Beasley had 27 for the Chaparrals.

New Orleans, losing 25-17, ran off a 16-2 spurt and raced away from Indiana as Jackie Moreland and Jimmy Jones each hit 25 points, Freddie Lewis scored 26 for the Pacers.

Benvenuti, Frazier Winners

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Nino Benvenuti is once again midweight champion of the world and Joe Frazier rules as heavyweight king of at least part of it today after a record-setting boxing doubleheader at Madison Square Garden.

A crowd of 18,096 paid $683,503, an indoor fight gate record, to watch the stylish Benvenuti outlast Emilie Griffith for a unanimous decision and Frazier stalk and pound blubbery Buster Mathis into submission in the 11th round.

Frazier, fighting for recognition by New York, Massachusetts, Maine, and Illinois as heavyweight champ, wore Mathis down with punishing body blows before finally dropping the big guy from Grand Rapids, Mich., with a short, stiff left hook in the 11th.

Mathis, his white trunks covered with blood, fell into the ropes heavily. He stumbled to his feet at the count of nine but Referee Arthur Mercante stopped the fight. The time was 2:33.

"This ought to prove who owns who," a jubilant Frazier shouted in his dressing room. Joe, who won the Olympic heavyweight title in 1964, twice lost to Mathis as an amateur. The defeats were the only blemishes on his record.

Frazier, the one-time butcher boy from Philadelphia, bloodied Mathis' nose in the third round, and then concentrated on the big guy's body in the middle rounds.

The stiff body punches tore into Buster's ample mid-section and took the steam out of the 243½ pound Mathis' fast start.

Yancy Durham, Frazier's manager, had advised the 24-year-old slugger to work on Mathis' body. "Beat him around the belly," Durham had told Frazier, "and he'll eventually give up."

So Joe, giving up 39 pounds to Mathis, pounded away and from the sixth round on it seemed obvious he was in complete control.

Mathis, badly shaken by the defeat, said he was stunned at losing the way he did.

"I thought I as ahead," he said, "then I pulled back from a left hook and got tagged."

Jimmy Iselin, wealthy young head of Peers, Inc., which has managed Mathis' career, said that if Buster continued fighting, it would be against tougher opponents.

Cougars End Season With a Victory

HOUSTON (AP) — Guy Lewis, college basketball's coach of the year, is a fidgety man who twists towels and drinks at least 20 cups of water during every game.

As usual, two soft drink cases holding 48 paper cups of water were at Lewis' feet Monday night as his University of Houston Cougars completed their regular season schedule with a 28-0 record by defeating West Texas State, 107-76, at Canyon.

Just two hours before the tip-off Lewis had won The Associated Press coach of the year award in run-away fashion. With 322 sports writers and broadcasters voting, Lewis collected 122 votes to 34 for John Wooden of UCLA, the 1966-67 season winner.

Lewis' award came just three days after Elvin Hays, the pace setter for the high scoring Cougars, captured the player of the year award with a landslide victory over UCLA's Lew Alcindor.

Houston had held the No. 1 national ranking since snapping UCLA's 47-game winning streak Jan. 20 with a 71-69 victory before a record crowd of 52,693 in the Astrodome.

Dave Bing Is Still Setting Torrid Pace

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Bing of Detroit continues as the National Basketball Association scoring race, but Baltimore rookie Earl Monroe and Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles are putting on the pressure.

Bing leads Monroe by 139 points and Baylor by 148, according to league statistics released today.

In games through last Sunday, Bing had poured in 1,883 points to 1,744 for Monroe and 1,735 for Baylor.

Wilt Chamberlain of Philadelphia has the top field goal percentage, .579, and leads in rebounds with 1,671. Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati is the free throw percentage leader, .870, and Len Wilkens of St. Louis has the most assists, 614.

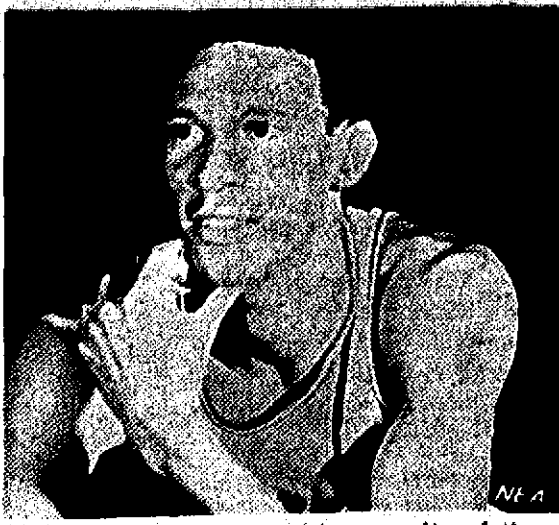

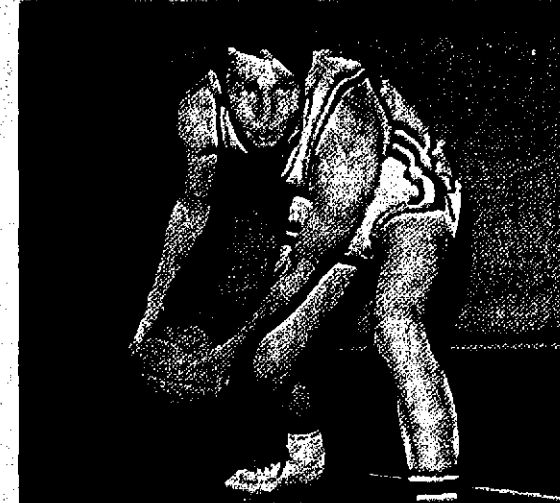

East Hockey Division Going Great

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Hockey League's senior East division is enjoying its best race in years and the tension is spilling over into the scoring race.

Just two points separate the top four scorers with New York's Rod Gilbert and Jean Ratelle battling Chicago's Stan Mikita and Bobby Hull for the top spot.

Gilbert and Mikita share the lead today with 73 points apiece while Hull and Ratelle are tied at 71. Mikita, of course, has captured the scoring title three of the last four years with Hull breaking his teammate's string by taking it in 1966.

Boston's Phil Esposito, traded by Chicago during the summer, holds down fifth place with 69 points, three more than Detroit's Gordie Howe, Johnny Bucyk and Fred Stanfield of Boston share the seventh slot with 61 points. Chicago's Ken Wharram has 59 and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit 58.

ANTIQUES generally require at least a century of aging, but not in today's stepped-up atomic age. Tube "panel" in background is only 13 years old, but as a component of the first large-scale computer installed outside IBM's own offices, it is classed as antique, made obsolete by "card" held in foreground. One of these cards is equivalent of 20 tube panels. Monsanto, owner of the dated computer, has donated it to the Smithsonian Institution's Museum of History and Technology.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG
Female Hormones Help Prevent Decalcification
By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—In a recent column you said that female hormone causes calcium deposits in the body, or am I misquoting you? I have been taking Premarin and recently my finger joints have been painful. What would cause this?

A—Women who are past 50 are prone to develop osteoporosis (decalcification) of the spine which, in advanced cases, may lead to collapse of one or more vertebrae. Female hormones help to prevent this decalcification but they do not cause excessive calcium deposits. The pain in your joints is most likely due to the arthritis that so often accompanies aging.

Q—My doctor, just by looking at me, said I had a lack of calcium. How could she tell without making any tests? What symptoms would it cause?

A—A lack of calcium may be diagnosed by determining the blood calcium level or by signs of decalcification of bones as seen in X-ray films. I know of no other way to tell.

A calcium deficiency may be associated with a deficiency of parathyroid hormone, in which case muscular spasms in the hands and nervous irritability would be prominent symptoms. If you have an uncomplicated calcium deficiency, you might have no symptoms at all or a weakness in the bones might develop.

Q—I have taken calcium tablets for two years. Can one take too much calcium?

A—An adult should get about 800 milligrams of calcium a day. When much larger amounts are taken, practically all of the excess passes through the digestive tract and is not absorbed into the blood. An excess of calcium

The minor expert was holding forth in the post-rubber game gathering. It had taken him some time to get the floor, but eventually he was telling about what his bad partner had done to him on the hand shown in the box.

"Our opponents were vulnerable with 60 on score, and I decided not to give up after my partner passed and South opened with one spade. My partner bid two no-trump over North's two spades, and South closed the bidding with three spades. All suit leads looked unattractive, so I opened my deuce of trumps. As you can see, this cost a trump trick, but we still should have beaten the hand. Here's what happened to me:

"South took my partner's queen with the ace, entered dummy with the ace of clubs and led a spade. My partner took his king and got out with the four of hearts. South played low. I won with the 10 and led back the deuce to put South in. He drew my partner's last trump and led a club. I played my 10 but my partner was not going to let me be end-played. He overtook with the king and led a low diamond. South played low and I had to go up with the king, whereupon South spread his hand and claimed the balance."

All the assorted listeners, with the exception of the one major expert in the group, sympathized as expected but the major expert had a few words of dissent. Here they are:

"Your partner's decision to bid two no-trump instead of three hearts was a bad one and left you a tough lead problem, so I can't blame you for your opening lead, but I do claim that you chuckled the hand."

"How, by the ghost of Culbertson?"

"When you were in with the 10 of hearts, you should have led the king back. Then, your partner would never have gone wrong."

What do you do now?
A—Pass or bid two spades. If you don't expect your partner to take your raise too seriously then a raise is indicated.

TODAY'S QUESTION
You decide to pass. West bids two hearts and your partner bids two spades. What do you do now?

GOP Group to Reject Southern Strategy Civil Rights Plank

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-four Republican senators from states with 638 delegate votes have charted a course toward rejection of any "Southern strategy" civil rights plank by the GOP National Convention.

Led by GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, the 24 supplied the margin Monday by which the Senate clamped debate-limiting closure on a pending civil rights bill by a 65-32 count—the bare majority needed.

This vote appeared to guarantee eventual passage of a bill carrying an open-housing provision giving Negroes more encouragement to move into the vote-packed white suburbs. Republican candidates count heavily on suburban support to offset the Democratic big-city strongholds.

If the 24 senators from as many states are reading the sentiment at home correctly—and there were divisions of opinion in three of the states—delegations representing nearly half of the 1,333 Miami Beach, Fla., convention votes are in no mood for a civil rights compromise with the deep South.

This does not take into account delegations from states which have no GOP senators but which are likely to support a strong civil rights declaration. These include Connecticut, Maryland, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio, Washington and Wisconsin, which will have a total of 204 convention votes.

It takes 667 votes to win the GOP nomination.

Such a bloc could mean the Republicans will make a 180-degree turn from 1964. Then Barry Goldwater voted as a senator against passage of a civil rights bill and engineered the futile strategy of trying to combine Southern strength with white backlash support in the North.

The third-party threat of former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama already has all but wiped out any hopes for major Republican inroads in the South this year.

By their actions, the Republican senators are cautioning their party colleagues—and the GOP's eventual presidential candidate—against contesting with Wallace for suburban hold-outs against integration.

Instead, they're backing National Chairman Ray C. Bliss' blueprint for seeking possible gains among Negro voters, gains Bliss has said are necessary for a GOP victory.

There was evidence Dirksen was responding to a surge within his own ranks against having the party labeled as executioner of the civil rights bill.

Dirksen took Sens. Howard H. Baker, Jr., R-Tenn., and Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, over with him last week when he switched from opposing to supporting closure. Sens. Frank Carlson, R-Kan., and Jack Miller, R-Iowa, made the same switch Monday.

57 American Civilians Now Missing

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Mission said today its latest figures show 57 American civilians killed, captured or missing as a result of the Communist lunar new year offensive. This is two more killed and 10 more captured than a report released last Thursday, and the number unaccounted for dropped 20.

The latest tabulation, covering the period from Jan. 30 to date, said there were 32 killed, 18 known to have been taken prisoner and seven missing.

Northside Still First in Polls

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Fort Smith Northside, the slim favorite in the Class AAA state tournament, is a unanimous choice for the top spot in the Associated Press Arkansas high school basketball poll.

The Grizzlies, who have won 21 straight since splitting their first four games, garnered all 10 first place votes.

Little Rock Central remains second but the remainder of the top ten received a thorough shakeup.

Blytheville jumped from sixth to third and Pyatt, the newly crowned Class B state champion, vaulted from tenth to fourth. Greenbrier, beaten by Pyatt in the semifinals, fell from third to fifth.

Sixth place is shared equally by Class A champion Green Forest, Magnolia Columbia, once-beaten Turrell and Fort Smith Southside. All received 35 points based on ten points for first, nine for second, etc.

North Little Rock dropped from eighth to tenth.

Here are the results of the poll with first place votes and team records in parentheses and total points at right:

1. FS Northside (10) (23-2)	100
2. LR Central (22-4)	83
3. Blytheville (23-5)	79
4. Pyatt (38-3)	54
5. Greenbrier (35-2)	37
6. (tie) Green Forest (34-5) 35
Magnolia Columbia (36-2) 35
Turrell (37-1)	35
FS Southside (17-7)	35
10. North Little Rock (18-10) 16

Others received votes, listed alphabetically: El Dorado, Harrison, Hot Springs, Leachville, LR Horace Mann and Stamps, Ellis.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
There are but three classes of men, the retrograde, the stationary, and the progressive. — Lavater said it.

COMING AND GOING
Mrs. Vera Deloney had as weekend guests her brothers, Lenon Bennett of Denver, Colorado and Otis Bennett and his son Larry Bennett of Magnolia.

Those who attended the Columbia County Union Singing Convention from Hope, were: Mrs. Vera Deloney, Mrs. and Mrs. Pink Dennis, and their grandchildren, Kimble, Renae, and Pat, and Mrs. Beatrice Smith.

It was held at the Mt. Superior Baptist Church near Magnolia.

FUNERAL
Funeral service for Sid Williams will be held at the Garrett Chapel Baptist Church Saturday March 9 at 2 p.m. Burial will be in Scott's Memory Gardens under the direction of Smith Funeral Home of Stamps.

Funeral service for Mrs. Ethel Taylor will be held Saturday March 9 at 1 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, Nashville, Hicks Funeral Home, Inc., in charge.

apologizing was reportedly in line with demands by North Korean negotiators in a series of closed Panmunjom meetings. The 10th such meeting was held Sunday night.

It is understood—although not officially confirmed in Washington—that North Korea has indicated such steps by the United States could lead to the settlement of the Pueblo problem.

Following North Korea's Jan. 23 seizure of the ship, U.S. officials denied the charge the Pueblo had violated North Korean territory. They said it was operating under orders to remain outside North Korea's 12-mile limit.

The latest letter claimed to be from the crew is one of a series of "confessions" alleged by North Korea to have come from the vessel's captain, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, and various other crew members.

Officials said none of the five violations claimed in the latest letter was new because each of them had been referred to in one or another of the previous "confessions."

What was new in the latest letter was the emphasis placed on expectation of the crew's release if the United States would take the actions proposed in their appeal.

"We do not doubt," the letter said, "that you will see us swiftly returned."

national credit cards are used primarily by upper income businessmen for business entertainment and travel. The First National Bank will not limit its BankAmericard holders to upper income, nor will it concentrate only on restaurants and motels or hotels as merchant members.

Although the bank's credit card program will be independently operated, the card will be interchangeable throughout the nation anywhere it is accepted. Because of the interchange agreement with other participating banks outside the area, BankAmericard will provide travel and entertainment advantages as well as local retail acceptance.

Originated in 1959 in California, there are currently more than 5,500,000 cardholders and approximately 150,000 merchant members nationally.

Explaining further plans for BankAmericard in the area, Mr. Hays states, "Its real beauty lies in the compatibility of services to individual cardholders and merchants alike, such as extended payment options to the customers, with immediate payment to the merchants."

Mr. Hays also pointed out that BankAmericard is the only major credit card which does not charge cardholders a fee to join and belong.

Other advantages to cardholders include consolidating purchases into one monthly statement, which may be paid by a single check; improved record keeping, because cardholders receive copies of all sales tickets; and automatic credit at numerous business locations locally and throughout the nation, without having to apply for credit at each individual establishment.

Robison, Callison Holding Out

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Frank Robinson and Johnny Callison feel Baltimore and Philadelphia are adding insult to injury with their money offers to play baseball this year. The Orioles and Phillies, on the other hand, feel Robinson and Callison have added their figures wrong.

As a result of these mixed up mathematics of baseball value, the two slugging outfielders remained two of the biggest name holdouts as major league spring training moves on.

Clete Boyer, third baseman for Atlanta, was another who has not found the right answer in his talks with the Braves.

But some agreeable figures were reached Monday as Frank Howard signed the largest money contract ever, $47,500, by a Washington player; Mel Queen, Tommy Helms and rookie Jay Ritchie ended their holdout with Cincinnati, and the Orioles did come to terms with Dave Johnson and Curt Blefary.

Robinson, however, remained Baltimore's big problem, and if everyone's figures are correct, the American League Triple Crown winner two years ago and the Orioles are $15,000 apart.

Robinson, who sat out a month last season with double vision after a baseline collision and still managed to hit .311 with 94 runs batted in and 30 home runs, says he is standing by $125,000.

Personnel director Harry Dalton of the Orioles, who originally offered last year's $100,000 salary, then raised it to $105,000, reportedly increased his offer to $110,000 Monday after talking to Robinson 1½ hours.

Olympic Fund Missing, Case Probed

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The federal government and the state attorney general's office are looking into a report from an advertising firm, soliciting funds for the Olympic Committee in a five-state area, that $72,000 is missing.

Assistant U. S. Atty. Tim Timmins said officials of Dorison and Co. told him an ex-employee had diverted the funds.

Timmins added that U. S. Post Office Department inspectors were checking on whether there had been mail fraud or if there was an interstate violation that could bring the shortage under the aegis of the federal government.

ters of protest to."

San Obediah of the Leafs' publicity department said most of the callers were "housewives who were stunned at the announcement. There are people milling around on the sidewalk outside of the Garden who want to come in and protest. But only a few have dropped in so far."

Mahovich, 30, scored 48 goals during the 1960-61 season, and has 296 in his 11-year career, a club record. He has 19 this season, but missed five weeks because of a nervous breakdown.

Six years ago, the Chicago Black Hawks offered the Leafs $1 million for Mahovich at a late-night cocktail party and the following day, Tommy Ivan of Chicago showed up with a certified check for the amount.

The deal was finally cancelled after a storm of protest from fans similar to the one triggered by the trade Monday.

Beaches Are Closed in San Juan

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
SAN JUAN P.R. (AP) — Five San Juan hotels have closed their beaches after oil from a wrecked tanker spread over the sands, but other hotels west of the spreading oil slick reported their beaches still unpolluted today.

Thousands of tourists left the beaches Monday as oil kept rolling in from the 12,065-ton Ocean Eagle, which split in half on a reef Sunday as she approached San Juan Bay. The Liberian tanker carried six million gallons of oil.

"Most tourists seem to be taking the problem in stride," said Puerto Rico's director of tourism, Hector Pinero. There were reports that some hotels were getting cancellations, but there was no indication that these were running to any great number.

Pinero said beaches sullied by oil, could be cleaned by the removal of an inch of so of sand.

Marine biologists said, however, that "no matter what is done, we have a serious problem on our hands." Our expert said beaches would be polluted for months. By late Monday the slick covered about 10 miles of water.

Three tugboats tried in vain to pull the Ocean Eagle's bow from the harbor mouth Monday.

May Delay 2nd Special Session

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) — State Sen. Clarence Bell of Parkin said here Monday night he felt that Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller may postpone the calling of another special session until after the primaries this summer.

Rockefeller had said he would call the second special legislative session in May.

Bell said Rockefeller may postpone the session to avoid further financial troubles.

"If the present economic situations continue to develop you will not be able to tie the governor up in a tow sack and throw him in the race for reelection," Bell said.

Attitude of Nasser Called Encouraging

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department has termed encouraging President Gamal Abdel Nasser's reported withdrawal of this charge that U.S. planes helped Israel during the Middle East war last June.

But department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey would not comment Monday on whether the Egyptian leader's statement in a Look magazine article might lead to restored diplomatic relations— which Nasser broke off June 6.

State Department experts have made clear that withdrawal of the charge would be a precondition for renewed relations. There was no immediate indication if Nasser's informal and rather cautious statement in the magazine interview would be considered adequate.

The interviewer asked Nasser

if the charge that American and British planes provided Israel with a "protective air umbrella" was "based on suspicion and faulty information."

"You could say that, yes," Nasser was quoted as replying.

Nasser and King Hussein of Jordan made the accusation on June 6, the first day of the war encouraging President Gamal Abdel Nasser's reported withdrawal of this charge that U.S. planes helped Israel during the Middle East war last June.

Items Include Liquor, Coffin

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Thousands of imported items in the hands of customs officials including 8,500 bottles of liquor and a coffin, go on the auction block Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The U.S. Customs Office said most items were unclaimed merchandise. The liquor was confiscated because California's import laws restrict tourists to one fifth apiece. Federal law allows five fifths.

There are more than 81 million automobiles registered in the United States.

Tax Proposal Motionless 7 Months

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's 10 per cent income tax surcharge proposal, now seven months old, has remained virtually motionless since its unveiling last Aug. 3. But it's still very much alive.

There are fresh signs the tax hike will win new attention in the coming weeks, especially in view of the current reappraisal of U.S. troop strength in Vietnam.

It costs as much as $40,000 to send a man to Vietnam and maintain him there for a year. So any troop escalation of 50,000 to 100,000 men could cost as much as $2 billion to $4 billion.

Administration officials have never abandoned hope for the surcharge even when it was shelved temporarily for the third time by the House Ways and Means Committee earlier this year.

And some officials appear more hopeful than at any time since last fall that the surcharge will become law before long.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, one of the architects of the surcharge, is expected to make a new appeal for the tax when he testifies Wednesday before the Senate Finance Committee.

Although the committee is primarily considering a House-passed bill to prevent the auto and telephone excise tax rates from dropping on April 1, it will be Fowler's first chance this year to appeal for the surcharge in a formal meeting with the Senate group.

An optimist when it comes to the surcharge's chances in Congress, Fowler pointed out in a recent interview that it took more than a year to win final approval of the last two tax cuts.

There are reports that any escalation of troop strength in Vietnam might prompt the administration to propose a surcharge even higher than 10 per cent.

Some of Fowler's optimism probably springs from a statement by Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, who last week said a substantial acceleration of the Vietnam war could force Congress to enact higher taxes.

Mills cautioned that cutbacks elsewhere in the federal budget would also be essential.

When Johnson last January submitted his $186.1 billion budget to Congress for the next fiscal year he asked for the surcharge to take effect April 1 for individuals and retroactive to Jan. 1 for corporations.

This timetable now appears out of the question since even the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee has acted on the proposal, much less the House itself and the Senate.

But an attempt is expected in the Senate to tack a surcharge to the excise tax bill.

States Seek End to Strike of Teachers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Governors and legislative leaders in three states today were heading toward showdowns with militant teachers' unions.

Oklahoma Gov. Dewey Felt met with legislative leaders again in hopes of reaching a compromise on school financing before Wednesday's descent on the capitol by thousands of irate school teachers.

In Florida a gubernatorial veto and another special legislative session loomed as possibilities as the statewide teacher strike moved into its 12th class day with no sign of immediate solution.

Classroom walkouts also continued in Wellston, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis, and Pittsburgh, Pa.

In Harrisburg, Monday, some 20,000 Pennsylvania teachers booted and shouted down Gov. Raymond P. Shafer as he appealed for patience and order in pressing their demands for higher salaries and school subsidies.

"Now, now, now," the angry but orderly throng chanted as Shafer pledged them a $6,000 a year minimum salary by the end of his administration in January, 1971.

The Pennsylvania State Education Association called the statewide demonstration in support of measures pending in the legislature to raise minimum salaries to $6,000 in three annual steps and increase state school subsidies to local boards to pay for them.

PSEA President Joseph Standa of Allentown said there would be repercussions at the ballot box for officials and legislators who failed to get the teachers' message.

The Oklahoma Education Association has called a "professional holiday" Wednesday for that state's 27,000 school teachers and 620,000 pupils. More than 15,000 teachers are expected to attend a one-day convention in Oklahoma City. The OEA says it has collected more than 10,000 undated resignations from teachers to back up its demands for better financing of public school education in Oklahoma.

About 1,000 of Pittsburgh's 3,000 teachers struck last Friday in a demand for collective bargaining elections.

School officials plan to reopen the 24 junior and senior high schools today. Elementary schools have remained open during the walkout.

Florida Gov. Claude Kirk met with Republican legislative leaders again Monday but neither he nor the lawmakers would comment when their session broke up after 11 p.m.

Some 25,000 teachers walked out of classrooms two weeks ago after their union, the Florida Education Association, termed a new $329-million education bill inadequate. Kirk has until Thursday to act on the bill.

Bill Young, state senate Republican leader, said Monday Kirk had indicated he would veto the main bill in the education package and call the legislature back to improve it.

Wednesday Fair But Cold Is Coming

Fair weather is forecast for Arkansas through Wednesday, but another mass of cold air is heading toward the state.

Temperatures in the 60s were forecast for Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons as warmer air flowed into the state under the influence of a high pressure system.

The cold air mass will approach North Arkansas by Wednesday night and Central Arkansas Thursday afternoon. Little or no rain is expected.

High temperatures Monday ranged from 63 at Gilbert and 60 at Batesville and Arkadelphia to 55 at Clarendon and Memphis. Overnight lows ranged from 16 at Gilbert and Calico Rock to 40 at Harrison. There was no rainfall reported for the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. today.

Privacy and the Census

During the last federal census, a disgruntled citizen decided the government was getting altogether too nosy. So he refused to answer certain questions, calling them an invasion of his privacy and an "unreasonable search and seizure"—forbidden by the Constitution.

But in a test case, the court held the questions within the proper scope of governmental curiosity. "The authority to gather reliable statistical data reasonably related to governmental functions is a necessity," said the court, "if modern government is to legislate intelligently."

By and large, the taking of the census (itself authorized by the Constitution) has not run into serious opposition.

One big reason, no doubt, is that personal information is kept confidential—as a kind of compensation to the citizen for accepting a little prying into his private life. Federal law specifically provides that census information about any individual may not be disclosed "to his detriment."

What does this mean? In one case, an insurance company refused to pay a man's claim because it suspected he had lied about his age on the application form.

"To double check," the company told him, "we would like to see what age you gave to the census taker." However, in a court hearing, the insurance company was denied access to the census records. The court pointed out that the desired information might indeed be to the man's detriment—and therefore could not be released without his consent.

That doesn't mean general statistics cannot be used, merely because they are unpalatable to some individuals. Thus:

A city wanted to use census figures to classify a certain block as a "blighted area." Property owners objected that this was using census information "to our detriment."

But the court overruled their objection, because this was not personal information but simply the statistical profile of a neighborhood.

Over the years, such statistics have become a valuable source of guidance not only for government but also for business, for agriculture, and even for individuals. After all, without the census, how could girls find out what sections of the country have the greatest concentrations of eligible young men? And vice versa.

New Radar System for Britain

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States plans to build a new over-the-horizon radar in Britain that sources said would give this country adequate warning against the Soviet Union's new orbital bomb.

The new radar will reportedly have the ability to peek around the earth's curvature and spot approaching missiles or orbital devices.

Existing line-of-sight radars, including the ballistic missile early warning system extending across Canada and in Britain, can detect hostile rockets only after they rise above the horizon.

The new over-the-horizon radar would be operated in Britain under a joint agreement similar to that covering an early-warning installation at Fylingdales Moor.

Officially the Pentagon was mum on the matter Monday, acknowledging only that the United States is talking with Britain on several projects, including over-the-horizon radar.

Former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said last November the new radar would be a countermeasure to the Soviets' so-called Fractional Orbital Bombardment System. Retired Air Force Gen. Bernard A. Schriever told a National Space Club audience in Washington Monday night the orbital missile is the most significant element in the Soviet's new strategic force.

Schriever, who headed development of the U.S. ballistic missile and space system and who often clashed with McNamara over aviation-space goals, added: "Every indication points toward the development by the Soviet Union of still more sophisticated space systems, including improved versions of orbital weapons."

He said the comparative strength of the U.S. missile force is steadily declining while the Soviets are enlarging their force by some 200 missiles annually.

McNamara said the Soviets probably were developing the orbital bomb as a weapon to destroy U.S. strategic bombers before they could take off in war-time.

The Soviet weapon, because of a low trajectory, could be detected by existing radar only about three minutes before blasting Strategic Air Command bases, giving the United States virtually no time to get its bombers aloft.

By contrast, radars in the ballistic missile early warning system are supposed to provide 15 minutes alert time against incoming missiles. McNamara said installation of over-the-horizon radar units would allow the United States to recapture the necessary 15 minutes warning time so far as the Soviets' Fractional Orbital Bombardment System is concerned.

It appeared that installing over-the-horizon radar in England might give the United States even more than 15 minutes warning.

Color Run Tomorrow
Process Color Is
2-Stage Adventure

Tomorrow The Star will present its 13th Color Show - a page of pictures of the jumping porpoises at Marine Land, Florida.

When your editor shot these 35mm. Kodachromes at America's first major outdoor aquarium 10 years ago this was a country daily printing with type on an old flatbed press, and it would have appeared to be a 100-to-1 shot if we ever expected to see them in print in our own newspaper. But this time a long shot paid off.

New presses came on the American market and we went along with the great printing revolution, throwing away an entire plant and installing a rotary offset press and new composition equipment. The crowning achievement was the installation of a Berkeley color separator - and now what used to be a private collection of color slides appears in process color (four-colors) in your newspaper.

Tomorrow's page is a layout of six 35mm. Kodachromes each "blown up" to four-column width. All the work except for development of the original Kodachrome camera film (a process laboratory job in Dallas) was done in The Star building with our own crew. Your editor made the separation negatives on the Berkeley machine, and the printing plates, registration and press work were done by Billy Dan Jones, mechanical superintendent, and Gene Allen, No. 2 pressman.

I mention this because the printing of process color is accomplished in two stages, of equal importance. The operator of the Berkeley machine produces four matched page-size negatives of such technical quality that plates made from them are capable of producing good-quality color on the press. The Berkeley operator checks his work two ways: (1) He measures the density of the cyan (blue) negative by an electronic measuring instrument called the Macbeth Densitometer, and (2) he makes a color proof of the four negatives combined. If the results coincide the job is O.K'd and sent on to the plate-makers and the pressroom.

The separation negatives themselves have no color - only varying shades of gray. The color proof goes into a shadow-box in the pressroom so that the page-size transparency is lighted up as a guide to the press crew on what colors they have to produce on the press. It's a knuckle-busting job - but with luck the production team brings it off.

There is no minor trouble with process color. Trouble is always major. On our last Color Show - Buffalo River and War Eagle Handcraft Fair, Nov. 24, the Berkeley separation negatives were pronounced O.K. by Eastman Kodak - but we had disappointing results on the press. It turned out that we had worked too long with one batch of opened process inks. They had literally "died."

Tomorrow we will be operating with a fresh supply of color inks, having learned one more lesson in technology.

In the printing fraternity you get calls for help, and also offers of help. George W. Hawkes, publisher of the Citizens Journal, Arlington, Texas, wrote us March 2 asking for information on our color operation, and we will give it to him. And a letter of the same date comes from Ruben Diaz de la Garza of Tampico, Mexico, technical director of the El Sol daily newspaper group of Mexico City and Tampico, offering us technical advice and help.

That's the spirit of experiment, invention, and progress in the venturesome day in which we live.

GOP Salute to Leaders

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's office announced Monday that the governor is to attend a dinner at Washington tonight saluting Republican leadership.

Rockefeller is to speak at Fayetteville Thursday at a meeting of the Ozark Canner and Freezer Association. He will speak at Tulsa March 15 at a meeting of the Arkansas Basin Development Association.

Rights Bill Rider Bans Rioting

WASHINGTON (AP) - Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey stirred a storm in the Senate today by ruling out of order an anti-riot measure as an amendment to the pending civil rights bill.

Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., appealed Humphrey's ruling, and a roll call vote was ordered on whether to sustain the vice president.

After protracted argument, however, Holland withdrew his appeal and Humphrey's ruling was vacated under an agreement to permit the anti-riot measure to come to vote as an amendment.

Then the anti-riot proposal was modified by striking out language that some senators contended put the burden of proof on defendants.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., floor manager of the civil rights protection-open housing measure, implored his colleagues not to take action that could jeopardize its passage.

Hart reported that the administration will submit its own anti-riot legislation later in the day or Wednesday.

The anti-riot bill offered by Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, is similar to a measure passed by the House last year. It has been bottled up in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Humphrey held that the Thurmond-Lausche bill was not germane as an amendment to the civil rights bill on which the Senate only Monday placed debate-limiting closure.

After Lausche challenged this ruling, Holland appealed to the Senate to override the vice president and clear the way for a vote on the anti-riot proposal.

Lausche said it was a constitutional right of citizens to be protected from rioting and he couldn't understand why it couldn't be held that his and Thurmond's amendment didn't go directly to the subject matter of the bill.

The amendment would make it a federal crime to go from one state to another to use interstate facilities with intent to incite a riot.

The anti-riot proposal was called up just before the Senate adjourned Monday night after a day in which a seven-week filibuster against the compromise civil rights bill was broken.

The vote to close out debate on the compromise measure was 65 to 32, just enough for the required two-thirds majority.

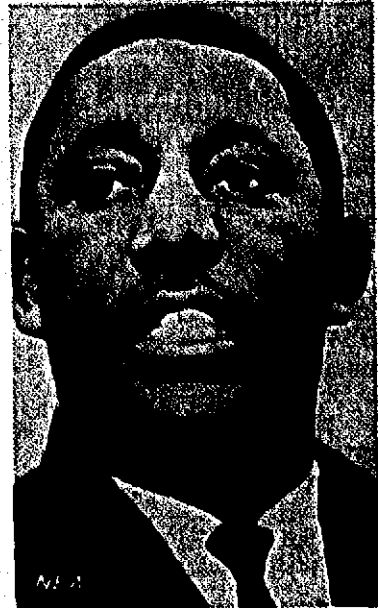

Three earlier attempts to invoke the Senate's debate-limiting closure rule had failed.

The bill's supporters jubilantly hailed the vote as assuring Senate passage, although controversial open-housing section may have to be modified further.

OEO Maintains Staff of Lawyers That Rival Justice Department Clampdown on Drug Prices Asked

By JEAN HELLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - The Office of Economic Opportunity maintains a full-time staff of lawyers which rivals that of the Justice Department, in more ways than one.

The OEO lawyers, hired by the government, sometimes find themselves suing their boss. It doesn't seem to bother the boss. But complaints have been heard from some members of the boss' family.

The OEO lawyers - 1,800 of them compared with 2,001 in the Justice Department - work for the Neighborhood Legal Services program in 250 offices across the country. Their clients are the nation's poor, people who can't afford to retain private lawyers.

The poor went to NLS, for free, 291,000 times last year. Of those complaints, said an OEO spokesman, 23,000 were against either the federal government or an agency of state, county or local government with which the federal government is involved.

Many of the complaints re- See OEO Maintains (on page two)

Robison's Son Held on Dope Charge

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) - Jackie Robinson Jr., is facing charges today of possessing narcotics.

The 21-year-old son of the first Negro to break into major league baseball was arraigned Monday after his arrest on a Stamford street by detectives who said they found several packets of heroin, and a pouch of marijuana on his person.

"We have obviously failed somewhere," Jack Sr. told reporters after the arraignment before Circuit Court Judge George Dizenzo.

In the courtroom earlier, Jack Jr. had tried to plead guilty to charges of possessing narcotics and carrying a concealed weapon. The police said they also found a .22-caliber pistol made in Italy when they arrested him early Monday.

But Judge Dizenzo told young Robinson that he would be able to enter a plea later. The date for a hearing was set for March 11.

Jack Sr. told reporters that he blamed himself for his son's predicament. An adviser to New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Robinson said he has been away from home too often and too long.

"I had the feeling something was wrong, but I couldn't get through to him," he said of his son.

Jack Jr., who was returned from Vietnam last year after receiving shrapnel wounds in action with the U.S. Army, lived in his own apartment, his father said.

Jack Jr. had admitted smoking marijuana in Vietnam, the elder Robinson said.

U.S. Studies Possibility of Apology

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) - Administration officials are trying to determine whether any U.S. admission of guilt and apology to North Korea would win release of the intelligence ship Pueblo and 82 surviving crewmen captured six weeks ago.

The basic problem President Johnson and his advisers face is whether the United States can or should admit and apologize for something - the Pueblo's alleged intrusion into North Korean territorial waters - which officials say they don't believe the ship did.

The apology issue came into sharp public focus Monday with North Korea's broadcast of a letter to President Johnson which Pyongyang Radio said was signed by all 82 crew members.

The contents of the letter had already been dispatched to the President by U.S. negotiators at Panmunjom North Korea, who had received it from North Korean representatives.

The letter claimed the Pueblo "intruded into the territorial waters" of North Korea at five different points. It said the crewmen believe "our repatriation can be realized only when our government frankly admits the fact that we intruded into the territorial waters of (North Korea) and committed hostile acts, and sincerely apologizes for these acts and gives assurance that they will not be repeated."

The first concern of administration authorities was to try to determine the authenticity of the signatures on the letter. It was reported that the Panmunjom negotiators were speeding the text to Washington for study of the signatures.

1st National Starts Credit Card Plan

First National Bank has announced plans for the introduction of BankAmericard, an all-purpose credit card plan.

Thomas E. Hays, Jr., President of the bank, said the move was based upon results of an extensive survey conducted in Hempstead County. The survey indicated that the growth of the area warranted a full-scale credit card facility of national significance - one that could be utilized in nearly all categories of business and professional service.

Mr. Hays indicated the program would begin immediately. Aside from its similarity to credit cards which are presented to merchants in place of cash, BankAmericard differs radically from other established major credit cards. Over the years it has been generally accepted that

Apparently Murton on Way Out

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) - Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, who fought to have Thomas O. Murton appointed prison superintendent, says the board of correction is under no commitment to retain Murton in "any position whatsoever in the Arkansas prison system."

Rockefeller told the board in a letter Monday that he did not think Murton's association with the prison system is "in the best interests of the state."

Murton was a professor of penology at the University of Southern Illinois at Carbondale when Rockefeller hired him last year as assistant prison superintendent in charge of Tucker Prison Farm. Rockefeller and what was then the state penitentiary board clashed over the governor's demand that Murton be made superintendent. The heated disagreement resulted in the resignations of three non-Rockefeller appointees from the board and Murton's appointment as superintendent early this year.

The unearthing of three human skeletons at Cummins Prison Farm Jan. 29 brought a rift between Murton and Rockefeller into the open.

Rockefeller told Murton he did not want Cummins turned into a "sideshow" and warned Murton not to "seek out" the press.

"Although Mr. Murton has demonstrated competency as a penologist, he is totally incapable of and insensitive to the requirements of operating in harmony with his associates in a governmental structure," Rockefeller said in his letter. "His callous disregard for the problems of his equals and his superiors has created a totally untenable situation."

Man Held for Series of Burglaries

Officers of three counties pooled their efforts to solve a series of burglaries in this area during the past few weeks.

Arrested in connection with the burglaries is Carl Joe Ceaser, 28, of near Nashville. He was taken into custody at Texarkana, Texas and released to Miller County officials.

In Miller County Ceaser was charged by Sheriff Leslie B. Freer with burglary and grand larceny in connection with the forced entry of Index Cafe on Feb. 29 and theft of a pickup truck belonging to Banks Cox. The vehicle was taken from in front of the Hush Puppy at Index and used to transport loot from the cafe to Howard County.

Sheriff Greer said 15 cases of beer, 48 musical records and three persons were taken at Index. The beer was later sold in Howard County and the stolen pickup was found abandoned near Ozan. The stolen records were found at Ceaser's home along with some of the cigarettes.

Ceaser was released to Sheriff Jimmie Griffin. He is being held in connection with several burglaries in Hempstead including Saratoga School.

Cong Shells 40 Towns, Installations

By GEORGE ESPEY
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) - Three hundred Viet Cong troops invaded a provincial capital at the southern end of Vietnam today and seized the hospital, but government troops drove them out of the city after a day-long fight. Military spokesmen said 152 of the Communists were slain.

The Communists also shelled a dozen provincial capitals, six district towns, and 14 military bases and camps including the U.S. base at Cam Ranh Bay, once considered the safest spot in South Vietnam. It was the second straight day of widespread shelling.

Although runways were pitted, Cam Ranh Bay was not severely damaged and flights were not delayed. This is the base President Johnson visited in his two trips to Vietnam since he became president, in November 1968 and last Dec. 23.

Allied communiques reported more than 500 Communist troops were killed Monday and Tuesday, many of them in fighting unrelated to the enemy shelling.

In the air war, U.S. B52s kept up the pressure on the North Vietnamese encircling the Marine base at Khe Sanh in the far northwest. They laid down a carpet of bombs in five separate raids north and west of the Marine Lines.

The attacks on the cities and camps followed Monday's shelling of seven air bases, two U.S. Command posts and four other installations. Most of the two-day shelling was not followed up by ground attacks.

One provincial capital hit was Can Tho, the delta nerve center for both military and civilian operations 80 miles southwest of Saigon. The government reported 13 civilians killed.

It was different, however, at Ca Mau, a provincial capital of about 40,000 people at the tip of the Mekong Delta 153 miles southwest of Saigon. The Viet Cong invaded the city after a softening up barrage for mortars and recoilless rifles.

One company seized the provincial hospital and held it for 11 hours before government reinforcements retook it.

Sporadic mortar and recoilless rifle fire continued late in the day. Allied fighter-bombers, helicopter gunships and artillery joined the ground troops against the Viet Cong forces, who were reported to have spilled into small groups throughout the town.
